The central Indonesian government will build a new airport for the D.I Yogyakarta Province. It will be located in the Kulon Progo Regency. The plan is to build an airport with a 3,250-metre long and 45 meters width runway and dual linear terminals to serve as an international gateway. The initial plan is to provide facilities to serve up to 10 million passengers per year for 28 aircraft together. Later expansions might accommodate up to 20 million passengers per year in phase-3. The location is in Temon District between Congot Beach and Glagah Beach (which includes Palihan village, Sindutan village, Jangkaran village and Glagah village).
